2. SCOPE

- 2.1 The Risk Disclosure Notice (the ‘Notice’) is provided by the Company to its Clients in order to help them to understand the risks that may arise when trading Contract for Difference (CFDs). However, the Client needs to bear in mind that the Notice does not contain all the risks and aspects involved in trading CFDs.
- 2.2 The Client should carefully read the Notice in conjunction with the Company’s Terms and Conditions of Use and all the other legal documentation and information available on the Company’s Website.
- 2.3 The Client needs to ensure that any decision to engage in trading CFDs is made by him/her on an informed basis and considering his/her knowledge and experience as well as to his/her personal circumstances (including but not limited to his/her financial situation). In addition, the Client needs to ensure that he/she understands the nature of CFDs and the extent of all risks and aspects involved in trading CFDs.
- 2.4 CFDs are leveraged financial products and therefore as such, trading CFDs involves a high risk of loss as price movements are influenced by the amount of leverage the Client is using.
- 2.5 The Client, under no circumstances, should risk more than he/she is prepared to lose.

3. GENERAL RISK WARNING & DISCLOSURE

- 3.1 Trading on financial markets carries risks. Contracts for Difference (‘CFDs’) are complex financial products that are traded on margin. Trading CFDs carries a high level of risk since leverage can work both to your advantage and disadvantage. As a result, CFDs may not be suitable for all investors because you may lose all your invested capital. You should not risk more than you are prepared to lose. Before deciding to trade, you need to ensure that you understand the risks involved taking into account your investment objectives and level of experience.

3.2 The Client is warned of the following general risks:

- 3.2.1 The Company does not and cannot guarantee the initial capital of the Clients' portfolio or its value at any time or any money invested in any Financial Instrument.

- 3.2.6 When a Financial Instrument is traded in a currency other than the currency of the Client's country of residence, any changes in the exchange rates may have a negative effect on its value, price and performance.
- 3.2.7 A Financial Instrument on foreign markets may entail risks different to the usual risks of the markets in the Client's country of residence. In some cases, these risks may be greater. The prospect of profit or loss from transactions on foreign markets is also affected by exchange rate fluctuations.
- 3.2.8 A Derivative Financial Instrument (i.e., option, future, forward, swap, CFD, NDF) may be a non-delivery spot transaction giving an opportunity to make profit on changes in currency rates, commodity, stock market indices or share prices called the underlying instrument. The value of the Derivative Financial Instrument may be directly affected by the price of the relevant underlying instrument.
- 3.2.9 The Client must not purchase a Derivative Financial Instrument unless he/she is willing to undertake the risks of losing entirely all the money which he/she has invested and also any additional commissions and other expenses incurred.

4. ADDITIONAL RISK DISCLOSURE

4.1 The Client is warned of the following additional risks:

- 4.1.1 The insolvency of the Company or of a Bank or Broker used by the Company to affect its transactions may lead to the Client's positions being closed out against his/her wishes.

- 4.1.3 A Bank or Broker through whom the Company may deal with could have interest's contrary to the Client's interests.
- 4.1.4 The Client's attention is expressly drawn to currencies traded so irregularly or infrequently that it cannot be certain that a price will be quoted at all times or that it may be difficult to effect transactions at a price which may be quoted owing to the absence of a counter party.
- 4.1.5 Trading on-line, no matter how convenient or efficient, does not necessarily reduce risks associated with currency trading.
- 4.1.6 There may be situations, movements and/or conditions occurring at weekend, in the beginning of week or intra-day after release of significant macroeconomic figures, economic or political news that make currency markets to open with price levels that may substantially differ from previous prices. In this case, there exists a significant risk that orders issued to protect open positions and/or open new positions may be executed at prices significantly different from those designated.

6. TRADING CONDITIONS: REQUIRED MARGIN, LEVERAGE AND STOP OUT

- 6.1 Financial markets may fluctuate rapidly to reflect events that are outside the control of the Company and/or the Client's. As a result, prices may become volatile. One form of price volatility is 'gapping', which occurs when there is a sudden shift in prices from one level to another. Created this way Market Gap may prevent the Company to execute the order at the price requested by the Client. Additionally, Market Gaps are creating a risk that Client's Account(s) may be automatically stopped-out.
- 6.2 Trading on margin/leverage can work in the Client's advantage, but it may also work against him/her. The Client should understand that a higher leverage may on one hand bring higher profit and on the other may lead to stop-out significantly faster than a lower leverage.
